COMPRISING

THE SELEUCID KINGS OF SYRIA

AND

AUTONOMOUS AND COLONIAL COINS OF CITIES

Collected in Syria.

J. DAVY & SONS,
DRYDEN PRESS, 137, LONG ACRE, LONDON.

MDCCClxxxvi.

THE coins described in this catalogue have been collected during a residence of more than ten years at Beyrouth and in Lebanon, where the owner held an official appointment. The collection comprises coins of Syria and of the surrounding countries, such as the Seleucid Kings and autonomous as well as colonial coins of cities. Like every collection, it contains coins of ordinary interest, and others of rarity and value.

The series of the Seleucid Kings represents varieties and types of all the kings of the dynasty—specimens of which do not figure in many of the great European public collections. Most of the silver coins being in a good state of preservation, this collection may be regarded from an artistic as well as a scientific point of view; but the large number of copper coins, which are more valued by numismatists than by ordinary amateurs, give it also an important archæological value.

The series of the Imperial coins of Antioch, in silver and copper, is very extensive, and contains also rare and interesting specimens. Some of the Colonial sets of towns are equally worthy of attention.

It must be borne in mind that, although antique coins are an object of commerce, and can to a certain degree be procured in trade, it is not always that a tolerably complete collection of a certain series can be obtained; and to form this is always a matter of time and of considerable expense. Indeed, certain coins cannot be bought at any price—and in order to obtain them amateurs have often had to wait year after year, until the death of some collector, who owned them, placed them possibly within their reach.

Although, as a rule, scientific numismatists do not attach a paramount importance to the state of preservation of antique coins, and consider them good when they are sufficiently clear to be an object of study; such is not the case with amateurs—for them the value of a coin is increased in proportionto its degree of preservation and beauty.

In giving, therefore, in the following pages, a description of the coins, some pains have been taken to indicate, as clearly as possible, the condition they are in.

Very good stands for a coin which is perfect in every degree.

Good means that, although well preserved, it has circulated, and may be deficient in point of beauty, while conserving, nevertheless, all its archæological interest.

A coin marked not good must be understood to have suffered in some of its parts.

The system followed for classifying the Seleucid Kings is the one adopted in the catalogue of the British Museum, which has been reproduced for the description of many coins, and the plates referred to are those of that very valuable work.*

To indicate the size of the coins, the decimal system has been adopted. Thus 1· signifies that the size of the coin is 1 inch in diameter; ·8 = $\frac{8}{10}$ of an inch, &c. &c.
